Australian Vocational Education and Training Management Statistical Standard (AVETMISS)

As a Registered Training Organisation, ERGT is required to collect and report trainee data to the National Centre for Vocational Education Research

(NCVER). This information is collected using the Standard Enrolment Questions and training records from our Student Management System. All trainees enrolling for Nationally Recognised Training (NRT) are requested to complete the Standard Enrolment Questions once per calendar year at their first enrolment for the year. This includes all onsite NRT training. The data is used by the government and industry to improve the standard and flexibility of training within Australia. The information provided is handled in accordance with ERGT's Privacy Policy.

Course Pre-requisites

Some courses require pre-requisites skills, knowledge or qualifications. Information on course pre-requisites can be found on the specific course outline on our website and the enrolment information you receive. ERGT Australia will accept and recognise verifiable NRT Qualifications and Statements of Attainment issued by any NRT organisation without exception and verifiable OPITO certificates issued by any OPITO approved training provider.

Medical Requirements

Training and assessment activities may include physically demanding and potentially stressful elements. Trainees must present themselves in a fit state for training. Relevant past or current illness/injuries and current medications must be declared on the Health Questionnaire that you will complete during the course induction. Your trainer will discuss with you any additional support or reasonable adjustments to training and assessment if required. Training and Assessment

Participation in Training Activities and Practical Exercises

Some training activities and practical exercises conducted by ERGT are potentially hazardous. You should ensure that you understand all risk relating to, associated with, or arising from, your participation in such activities or practical exercises.

You may choose, for any reason, not to participate in a given activity. However, it must be understood that in making such a decision, you may not satisfy mandatory competency requirements for certification and not be issued with a Statement of Attainment. In these instances other arrangements for assessment of the missed competency requirements may be made upon consultation with your trainer.

Competency Assessment

Competency Assessment is the collection of evidence by the RTO, demonstrating that a trainee can perform to the standard expected in the workplace as expressed in the relevant, endorsed industry competency standard. Competency must be demonstrated satisfactorily in all performance criteria. As a trainee on a competency based training course, you will be required to complete some, or all of the following methods of evidence collection:

Oral/Written Assessment: One or more of these methods may be used to assess the trainee's understanding of the theoretical aspects of course material.

Practical demonstration: Used to record the correct demonstration of skills described in the learning outcomes within units of competency. The assessment takes place either during formative or holistic skill demonstrations based on likely workplace scenarios.

Assessment Appeals

Trainees who find themselves deemed Not Yet Competent (NYC) by their trainer have the right to appeal that decision. All appeals are to be directed in writing to the General Manager Operations. The appeal must meet one, or both of the criteria below:

- The judgement as to whether competence has been achieved and demonstrated was made incorrectly
 - The judgement was not made in accordance with the Assessment Plan
- Where no satisfactory solution can be found, provision will be made for reassessment with another Trainer. Trainees have a 3 month period to complete the required re-assessment after which time the full course must be completed.

Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL)

RPL allows for recognition of competencies currently held, regardless of how, when or where the learning occurred. Under the VET Quality Framework, competencies may be attained in a number of ways including formal or informal training, education, work experience and/or general life experience. ERGT Australia will accept and recognise verifiable NRT Qualifications and Statements of Attainment issued by any nationally recognised training organisation without exception.

Please note that OPITO only recognise OPITO certificates for RPL.

ERGT will consider any request for RPL as long as the appropriate evidence of prior learning can be presented and that any legislated certification period has not been exceeded. A fee will be charged for RPL applications, based on a case-by-case basis. To apply for RPL please contact info@ergt.com.au.
